How does this bill change the squo? What information do you need to accurately answer this question?

- Identify what the debate will revolve around - u can usually understand this just by reading the bill
 - For this bill you need to understand the difference between the two classifications and their respective implications
- Consider current events as well - has something similar been passed already? What policies already exist/have any events occurred that are related to the bill and how does this bill interact with them?

Stock Aff

- Point
 - Assumptions ppl make in their warrants
- Rideshare drivers need W2 employee protection bc they're overworked since their driving hours are unregulated as independent contractors
 - Assumptions that may or may not be true include
 - Drivers are overworked
 - They're overworked bc their hours are unregulated
 - W2 employee protection will regulate their hours and result in a reduction of overworked employees
 - Working long hours is bad
 - Are drivers overworked solely bc they lack protection or bc they need the income from working more hours

Ur job is to research and determine whether these are true or not

Stock Neg

- Point
 - Assumptions ppl make in their warrants

Research the assumptions of stock points during/in addition to background research

- This helps you form your arguments around other ppl's points and make your points the most true in the round

See "How to Prep/Research" lecture for more in depth advice on researching

Background research/useful cards

- Good to cut the cards u read onto a doc and organize them in a way that's easy to access/understand if you need to flip
- IMO it also helps to read thru all the info you've read/have all of the facts about the bill layed out in front of you when you're trying to think of arguments

Once you have a point idea in mind...

1. Consider how/why it's true

- a. Identify the premise of your argument and make sure that it's true and that your evidence supports it
 - i. Premise = background + what the bill does and affects
- b. Deductive reasoning - two premises and a conclusion
- c. Inductive reasoning - if this happened in the past, you can assume it will happen in the future - inference made based on observations
- d. Abductive reasoning - drawing conclusions based on evidence/events with your knowledge - outcome is probable but not guaranteed

2. What its impact is

- a. This is the conclusion of the reasoning above
- b. Your argument must have an impact!!!!!! (ur premise proves something happens when u pass, why is that something good/bad)

3. What it can add to the round

- a. Round strategy
- b. Can you make the point more unique?
- c. Can you extend impacts?
- d. How does it interact with other people's arguments?
 - i. Can ur arguments be used to refute/flip ppl's arguments
 - ii. Are your impacts relevant to the round

Obscure points don't necessarily make for good points - to make your point more unique you can

1. Introduce solvency that u expect the round to be missing
 - a. Can manifest itself as a unique warrant
 - b. Having a very true argument that proves what the bill does well gives u the most flexibility in the round too
2. Have a unique warrant to a stock impact

- a. Unique warrants are usually introducing new information that correct assumptions made by other pp in their warrants OR they can just be introducing another aspect of the problem still relevant to the round
- 3. Extend your impacts
 - a. How else can this bill affect existing stakeholders?
 - b. Who else can this bill affect?
